

GP surgery is placed in special measures

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

HAVERHILL Family Practice has been placed in special measures for six months by the Care Quality Commission (CQC).

The GP surgery was rated inadequate overall and also in three core areas – safety, effectiveness and leadership – and requires improvement in caring and responsiveness to people's needs.

To have your say visit cambridge-news.co.uk/all-about/haverhill

An inspection by the CQC in January found the practice in Camps Road had not carried out annual infection control audits, fire risk assessments or health and safety risk assessments.

Inspectors also said the monitoring of patients on high risk medicines was not regular enough.

However, the practice was rated outstanding for using two emergency care practitioners for immediate care when GPs were not available and for its weekly education classes.

The practice was also praised for staff treating patients with "kindness and respect."

TASTER: Pupils got to try their hand at journalism

Pupils take up reporting roles

STUDENTS grabbed their note pads and pens when they became journalists for a day.

A total of 30 Year 9 pupils at Castle Manor Academy took part in the BBC School News Report initiative.

They wrote their own broadcast scripts and produced articles.

Lead English teacher Lauren Towers said: Every student pushed themselves on the day and behaved in a professional manner.

"It was a pleasure to watch them grow into mature reporters who took great pride in their work."

All the recorded broadcasts are available on the school website.

CRIME

Vehicles targeted by thieves again

THIEVES targeted handbags and power tools when four vehicles were broken into in Haverhill.

Thieves broke into a Peugeot 307 at Mildenhall Place, Haverhill, overnight between April 4 and April 5.

They smashed the driver's window to steal a handbag worth £50.

The same night, thieves smashed the passenger window of a Ford Cougar in Alington Walk, Haverhill, and stole another handbag containing cash and a passport.

Over the weekend power tools were stolen overnight on Saturday.

Tools were stolen from a Ford Transit van parked outside the victim's home in

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

Lowry Close, Haverhill.

Neighbours reported seeing the van lights flashing, as if someone had unlocked the van and a red car with what sounded like a V6 engine at 1.24am.

A Hitachi SDS hammer drill, 20 SDS drill bits and a Makita multi-tool drill were among the items stolen.

Another Ford Transit van was targeted the same night at Beech Grove, Haverhill.

Between 6pm and 8.50am thieves stole power tools from the van parked outside the owner's house.

Among the items stolen were a construction jigsaw, a Bosch angle grinder and a drill.

During a previous spate of tool thefts police believed offenders may have been using a remote unlocking tool to open the vans.

Suffolk police have advised that where possible people do not leave belongings in their car overnight.

Glove boxes should be left open as a way to show nothing is inside.

Tools should also be removed from vans overnight where possible.

Police urge anyone with information about any of the four thefts to contact them on 101.

Academy trust awarded £200k research status

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

SAMUEL Ward Academy Trust has been awarded £200,000 and named as one of only 11 research schools in the country and the first in the East of England.

The trust, which has 15 schools in the Haverhill, Newmarket, Sudbury and Bury St Edmunds areas responsible for teaching around 8,000 youngsters, is to become a focal point for educational research.

Andy Samways, Director of Training at the trust's Suffolk Borders Teaching Alliance, said: "This is wonderful news for students and teachers throughout the Samuel Ward Academy Trust and for all schools in Suffolk."

"This designation will give us direct access to the very best thinking on teaching and learning."

As well as supporting teaching and learning, the trust will be instrumental in sharing good classroom practice across schools in Suffolk, working in partnership with the Teaching Schools and the county's School-to-School Support Partnership.

Howard Lay, chief executive of Samuel Ward Academy Trust, said: "This is excellent news for the East of England because it will enable the Samuel Ward Academy Trust, in partnership with others, to stimulate educational innovation in order to raise standards and outcomes."

"For too long, too many educational initiatives have failed to embed because they have not been grounded in research. This has led to educational fads that are unsupported by systematic investigation and analysis. This research grant will enable us to ground practice in theory that works for all young people."

Mr Samways added that the trust had already been actively refining teaching approaches in response to evidence – most recently in primary school science, literacy and maths.

Earlier this year, Westfield Primary Academy, Haverhill, held a highly successful Shanghai maths mastery conference to share expertise with teachers from more than 50 schools.

Allan Cadzow, service director for Children and Young People at Suffolk County Council, said: "We are thrilled that Samuel Ward Academy Trust is to be the first research school in Suffolk."

"Samuel Ward Academy Trust were recognised for their continued successful outcomes for children in their area and trust schools, together with the collaborative work and support they provide through the School-to-School Support Partnership."

The Samuel Ward Academy Trust is made up of the following schools: Samuel Ward Academy and Castle Manor Academy (Haverhill), Thomas Gainsborough School (Great Cornard), Newmarket

Academy, Sybil Andrews Academy (Bury St Edmunds), Coupsals Primary Academy, Westfield Primary Academy, Burton End Primary Academy and Place Farm Primary Academy (all Haverhill), Glemsford Primary Academy, Wickhambrook Primary Academy, Laureate Community Academy and Houldsworth Valley Academy (both Newmarket) and Woodhall Primary School (Sudbury).

HEALTH

Practice determined to make changes

According to the report, staff also excelled at maintaining patient and information confidentiality. The inspectors "saw that staff handled difficult and emotional situations with professionalism and empathy".

Dr Firas Watfeh, GP partner at the practice, said: "The report findings show where improvements need to be made and every member of staff is determined to make the necessary changes."

"These include delivering more robust health and safety risk assessments, putting in place a more focused data management system and increasing levels of staff training.

"We are obviously disappointed to have received this rating. The practice has already implemented an action plan and every member of staff is working hard to address the issues raised."

"The administrative changes that need to be made will be implemented as a matter of urgency and every member of our team is committed to ensuring that patients receive safe, effective care."

"It is pleasing that patients have reported that they have confidence in those who treat them and they can easily make an appointment and that the practice is recognised as having good facilities to meet the needs of patients."

Inspectors spoke to eight patients during their visit and all said they were satisfied with their care and felt staff were committed, approachable and caring. They also praised GPs as excellent.

Management within the practice was criticised for its lack of awareness of results from a GP patient survey, where the surgery was lagging well below the local and national averages.

BARN FIRE: Firefighters tackling the fire at Calford Green, near Haverhill.

Firefighters tackle blaze in barn

SIX fire crews from across West Suffolk tackled a blazing barn on Saturday.

Firefighters from stations including Haverhill, Clare and Linton worked for more than two hours to extinguish the blaze at Calford Green between Haverhill and Kedington and close to Eastcotts Nursing Home.

They were called at 4.36pm and had left the scene by 7.07pm.

A spokesman for Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service said six pumps and a water carrier were sent and used three main jets, two hose reel jets and fire hydrants to fight the flames.

They also had to protect a nearby thatched cottage from the blaze using a further jet. Crews were also able to salvage some items from inside the barn.

There were no reports of injuries and an investigation into the cause of the fire has now been launched.

WORLD RECORD ATTEMPT

Up, up and away in my beautiful balloon

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

A HAVERHILL man took part in a world record attempt last Friday to fly 100 hot air balloons over the English Channel.

David Rawlings, 60, first caught the hot air balloon bug in 1989 when he stepped in at the last minute to help a friend fly in a festival in India.

Since then, ballooning has become a way of life for David and he relished the chance to take part in the 26-mile challenge after missing out on the last attempt due to work.

David, an IT engineer, who was accompanied by co-pilot Tony Gould from Ipswich, said: "It was a buzz all day."

"It was fantastic because when I got to the coast directly over Dover I could see the ferries in the harbour as we flew over them and when we looked behind us there was a lovely view of the cliffs."

David, who is a member of the Eastern Region Ballooning Club, completed the crossing in two hours and 45 minutes.

More than 200 balloon teams applied to attempt the world record but only 100 were selected.

The day was a real family event for the Haverhill team.

On the ground David's fiancé Janice Duffy, Tony's partner Phillippa Gordon and friend Nick Barret-White acted as crew, using GPS to track the balloon's progress and find them when they landed.

Because the attempt was not officially logged before the event, it has not yet been verified as a world record. Guinness World Records hopes to celebrate the ballooning odyssey as an official record once a retrospective application is submitted and verified.

The Haverhill balloon will be heading to Italy this summer for a festival in July as part of celebrations to mark the year both David and Janice turn 60.

Shaun gears up for his 150-mile bike challenge

For more community news visit cambridge-news.co.uk/all-about/haverhill

WHEELY GOOD EFFORT: Shaun Whiter will cover 150 miles in a sponsored event using a handbike. He is still recovering from his horrific injuries inflicted during a hit-and-run incident but is determined to marry fiancée Charlotte Way, pictured below, in July

SAMAR MAGUIRE
@SamarMaguireCN

MORE than nine months after losing both of his lower legs, former Newmarket footballer and crash victim Shaun Whiter is gearing himself up for a 150-mile sponsored cycling event next month.

The courageous 28-year-old, whose Newmarket Town FC career was ended after a hit-and-run incident, will join around 100 people on a two-day tour of Suffolk on May 14 using a specially built handcycle.

"You have your down days like everyone else," Shaun told the News. "But you've got to have moments – you can't let it drag you down. You need to keep yourself occupied, pick yourself up and come back. And I want to get back into doing sports."

"This will be much harder than cycling. It's not like going out for a normal 15-mile or six-mile bike ride, where you're with your friends – it's a six-mile with your arms. If I complete it, it'll be mad."

Shaun, who lives in Burrough Green, was left for dead at the side of a road near Newmarket last summer after Jan Adamec, from Haverhill, crashed into him – pinning Shaun between his own BMW and his friend's car.

After fleeing the scene, Adamec was caught and jailed for more than three years after he admitted causing serious injury by dangerous driving.

Despite both of his legs being amputated, Shaun has made astonishing progress in his recovery, learning to walk on prosthetic legs only five months after the accident.

Shaun, who currently walks using crutches has also pledged to walk down the aisle with his fiancée Charlotte Way at their wedding in July.

If that wasn't enough, Shaun is setting his sights on Team GB's paralympian team.

But Shaun also accepts that he needs to put his family life first.

"It's always been there, at the back of my mind," he said. "I'd like to give it a go. But what people don't realise is that it's a lot of sacrifice.

"If team GB say they want me to get into rowing, I'd then have to sacrifice my legs and walking because I'd be taken away to training camps."

"I don't want to be in a position where I'll turn up in four years' time, still not being able to walk. I want to carry on as a normal person – pick up my child, walk around and do things."

"It'd be a massive high, but in the long term it could be a long low. It's something I really need to consider."

Shaun, who has raised more than £800 so far, will be donating to the East Anglian Air Ambulance and the Friends of Ipswich Town.

To donate to Shaun, visit <http://uk.virginmoneygiving.com/team/shaunandlee-tourdesuffolk>

HEALTH

Trust wins praise from government

WEST Suffolk Foundation Trust has been congratulated by Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt after being rated top for staff engagement.

For 2016, the trust was declared number one across the whole of England for performance engagement, according to NHS staff survey results.

Mr Hunt said: "From visiting organisations throughout the country, I know the immense amount of day-to-day hard work that will have been behind this outcome cannot be underestimated."

"It is greatly appreciated, not just by me, but by all your patients that will be benefiting as a result."

The staff engagement score is made up of: staff members' perceived ability to contribute to improvements at work; willingness to recommend the trust as a place to work or receive treatment and the extent to which they feel motivated and engaged with their work.

Steve Dunn, chief executive at the trust, said: "This praise and recognition is for all our staff. They work hard to make West Suffolk Foundation Trust a great place to work and deliver outstanding outcomes for our patients."

Project to ease pressure on GPs

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

A PIONEERING scheme to ease pressure on GPs is to be trialled in Haverhill.

The two-year pilot scheme involves 'social prescribing' to allow GPs to focus on medical rather than social complaints from patients.

The £130,000 project is being funded by Suffolk County Council and the Department for Communities and Local Government.

ONE Haverhill Partnership is working with St Edmundsbury Borough Council on the project, John Mayhew, chairman, said: "Health remains, and will always be, a key priority for ONE Haverhill Partnership and this initiative is a great example of our partners working together to produce a direct result that benefits local residents."

The scheme involves the employment of two co-ordinators who will help link

people suffering from social isolation, debt problems or perhaps anxiety or feeling low with the town's community groups and activities.

Mr Mayhew added: "Haverhill is rightly proud of the wealth of community groups and volunteering spirit that runs throughout the town and I am sure they will embrace this exciting project going forward."

West Suffolk MP Matt Hancock said: "It's great news to see some investment in health services in Haverhill. Improving health services locally is really important to me, and I've been working with the NHS to secure improvements, so I warmly welcome this announcement."

The project is being shaped by more than 40 partners including members of the community working alongside the borough council and One Haverhill Partnership.

These partners include West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group (WSCCG) which is a GP membership organisation, GPs in the town, Suffolk County Council, West Suffolk Hospital, voluntary and community services, Haverhill Town Council, Abbeycroft Leisure and St Nicholas Hospice Care and other agencies.

Election form blow for UKIP

@rach_mc94CN

A UKIP candidate for Haverhill Town Council was disqualified for election because of a form discrepancy.

It has been suggested that the nominee was unable to stand because they wrote 'UKIP' rather than writing out UK Independence Party in full, invalidating their candidacy under strict Electoral Commission rules.

The costly acronym eliminated the nominee, making it an uncontested win for Labour's Liz Smith in the Haverhill North ward.

A spokesperson for St Edmundsbury Borough Council said: There was a single seat up for election with two people nominated. The nomination papers for one of these was determined as invalid. The reason for this was that the information wasn't completed as it should have been.

"The description on the nomination paper did not match the one on the certificate of nomination."

A spokesperson for UKIP blamed a "minor clerical error" for the election blunder.

When asked if the party gave candidates advice on how to get their paperwork right, he replied: "If they ask for it."

The election was called after Thomas Chivers resigned from the town council to take up a research position in London.

Runner Dave clocks up 100th marathon, aged 59

FIFTY NINE-year-old runner Dave Edwards completed his 100th marathon in front of a home crowd in Haverhill on Sunday.

Dave, who finished the course in 4hr 11mins 52sec said: "I'm glad I got to reach the 100 mark here with my family. When I started running 11 years ago I never thought it could be done."

"It wasn't the young runners winning races that inspired me, it was the runners in their 60s and 70s who had done so many marathons."

Dave, who lives in Haverhill, was one of more than 300 enthusiastic runners who turned out to compete in four events at the town's running festival.

The events included a marathon, half marathon, 10k and a family fun run.

Dave's landmark marathon was a family affair.

Three generations of his family competed on the day, with daughter Michelle Hayes running the half marathon and granddaughter Belle taking part in the fun run.

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@RACH_MC94cn

They were joined by runners from across the eastern region who took part in the town's second running festival held in support of St Nicholas Hospice.

Paul Galt won the marathon in 3hr 14min 02sec and the fastest woman, Puri Meseguer-Bernal, beat the course record, finishing in 3hr 53min 52sec.

Jack Tappin, of race organisers HaverSports, said: "I want to thank everyone who was involved in the Haverhill running festival 2017 – all our marshals, our sponsors, our supporters and most importantly our runners."

"I hope all our runners had a great race and will join us to realise a bigger and better Haverhill running festival in 2018."

George Chivers, from St Nicholas Hospice, thanked everyone who took part for their continued support.

Market offers tastes from around world

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

AN array of food delights from around the world was available in Haverhill at the weekend.

Queen Street was bustling with people on Friday and Saturday keen to experience a taste sensation or two at the world village market.

Firm favourites returned to the sun-soaked streets for the market, including pizza, artisan fudge, flavoured sausages, Greek kebabs, cider, chilli sauces and for man's best friend, gourmet dog biscuits.

Saturday also saw a craft and gift market on Market Square with stalls selling textiles, cakes, jams, chutneys, French soaps and cards.

There was also an Easter egg hunt with a treasure trail on the Saturday for youngsters and lots of fun activities including a merry-go-round and inflatable slide.

Sharon Fairweather, market development officer for St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "There was a lovely feel to the town and the feedback that St Edmundsbury Borough Council has received from our regular market traders, local businesses and from the shoppers themselves has been really positive. It was a great two days and we look forward to bringing more exciting events to Haverhill. This marked the second year the world market has come to Haverhill at Easter."

A new cable car is opening up one of Peru's most underrated sites, set to challenge the popularity of Machu Picchu. SARAH MARSHALL discovers the ancient cloud forest citadel of Kuelap

CASCADING bromeliads weigh heavy on near-horizontal tree trunks, like garish jewels dragging at the strained necks of stooped old ladies. As persistent drizzle becomes unrelenting rain, they glisten with bygone beauty.

Plumes of mist wisp from imaginary chimneys in roofless houses once belonging to noble families, the rubble of stone buildings now suspended in a shapeless blank cloud, and lost in time.

Peru's ancient civilisations had a habit of building sky-high, altitude-busting citadels, safe from enemy eyes. Machu Picchu is of course the most famous site of all, but further north in the cloud forests of Amazonas is a place far grander in age and scale. Yet few travellers even know it's there.

Built in 500AD by the Chachapoyas people, high-walled fortress town Kuelap predates Peru's Inca big hitter by 900 years.

Sixteenth century chronicles written by Spanish conquistadors speak of Amazonas – a region of tumbling rivers, steep gorges and mountains quilted with frog green forests – as being one of the hardest regions to reach. One modern guidebook warns: you never know what time you'll arrive in main city Chachapoyas.

Up until now, that was the case. But the opening of an airport at Jaen, in the neighbouring Cajamarca region, has greatly eased access, with 90-minute flights operating from Lima.

A big fuss is also being made about the new 24 million-dollar cable car connecting Kuelap to the small village of Nuevo Tingo, turning a 1.5 hour stomach-spinning drive around hairpin bends into an easy 20-minute glide.

In truth, the time saved isn't particularly significant, but the government project, designed to ease crowd pressure on Machu Picchu by opening up new archaeological areas, has brought international attention to this under-appreciated corner of Peru.

Entering through a narrow, tapering entrance, I clamber over slippery limestone rocks to find the remains of 400-plus houses – round, windowless buildings which once

Replica sarcophagi at the Museo Leymebamba

Decoration on houses in the Kuelap complex

Gocta Falls in Amazonas

Entering the Kuelap archaeological complex surprisingly gleaming white sets of teeth lining their sunken jaws.

Still relatively new to tourism, Amazonas has few high-end accommodation options.

I choose to stay at the idyllic Gocta Natura Cabins, an hour's drive north from Chachapoyas, tracing the route of the Utcubamba River.

Leaving a job at the World Bank in Lima behind her, lithe and energetic conservationist Rocío Florez has opened an eco-lodge of five standalone cabins set within reforested terraces, attracting endemic birds to the area for the first time in decades. But even at full gusto, their joyous melodies are drowned by the roaring Gocta Falls, a gaze-grabbing sight from wherever you stand on the property.

Until 2005, when German Stefan Ziemendorff measured the two-drop cataract as one of the tallest in the world (at 771m), the residents of Coachimba village were terrified of the myth-laden site supposedly filled with irresistible gold treasures.

Imaginations ran wild with tales of a beautiful siren known for wooing and destroying men; another story recounted a large snail who'd open his cloak to reveal hundreds of writhing snake heads.

"Many people are still convinced they'll get sick if they touch certain rocks in the forest," Rocío tells me, which perhaps explains why so many ancient sites have been hidden for so long.

I wonder what mind-altering substances those ancestors must have been smoking, but find no magic plants on my sweaty, undulating 5km trail to the Falls. Overcoming their fears, local villagers have made a good business in guiding tourists, perhaps finally finding their pot of gold.

Sun hits the gushing cataract at noon, although a fierce, shuddering had conical thatched roofs.

Decorations include diamond shapes inspired by feline eyes, and the unexplained relief of a stunned face staring from a temple wall. Slowly disintegrating bones are visible in some crevices, belonging to the 1000-plus bodies buried in Kuelap's walls.

Only a third of the site, eventually infiltrated by Incas in the late 1400s, has been excavated since being rediscovered in 1843. Efforts are currently underway to reverse some crude reconstructions in a bid to earn UNESCO World Heritage status, and when I visit, workmen are hurriedly working on walkways in preparation for an influx of tourists.

Numbers are expected to rise from 40,000 per year to 120,000, compared to the million-plus visitors Machu Picchu receives.

All over Amazonas, ancient sites paint a picture of Chachapoyas' life and – even more fascinating – death.

Hewn into vertical cliff faces, high above ground, sarcophagi (stone coffins) in the shape of giant heads are topped with the prized skulls of warlords conquered by the warriors within.

There are more than 30 burial sites; one of the best is at Karajia, in the north. But I choose to visit the mausoleums at Revash (a two-hour drive south of Kuelap, followed by a short trek), where small triangular-roofed houses embedded in the rocks feature ruby red paintings of pumas and the Southern Cross.

Only nesting vultures can flit through the T-shaped windows, but looters have still managed to pillage 80% of the contents. Sadly, it's the same story all over the region.

More than 200 Inca and Chachapoyas mummies are safeguarded in a controlled chamber at the excellent community-run Leymebamba museum, a 75-minute drive from Revash.

Small muslin bundles bound up with rope and daubed with simple circular faces sit on dusty shelves like cocooned, incubating pupae, although none will flourish with life again.

Elbows and knees were originally broken to create the shrunken packages, and intestines removed through the rectum.

Some of the compressed cadavers are exposed, saggy skin intact and

NEED TO KNOW

■ SARAH MARSHALL was a guest of The Ultimate Travel Company (www.theultimatetravelcompany.co.uk; 020 3051 8098) who tailor a ten-day Northern Peru experience from £2,950 per person, visiting Lima, Gocta Falls, Chiclayo and Trujillo.

Most meals are included, as well as international and domestic flights, private guided sight-seeing and private transfers throughout.

wind blows permanently at its base, and I understand how all those outrageous stories could so easily be believed.

Rocio's son, a respected chef in Lima, has trained some of the villagers to cook, and as a result, Gocta Natura Cabins serves easily the best food in a region rich in produce but poor in culinary invention.

Other community projects include teaching families how to make cheese and harvest mushrooms from the pine forests.

Along with archaeology, environment is one of the key pillars for future tourism in Amazonas and almost half of Peru's Private Conservation Areas can be found in the region, testimony to the love and respect local people have developed for their surroundings.

Biologist Perico Heredia is an advocate of the system, which allows individuals to request government recognition of their land as an important ecosystem.

Grinning boyishly beneath a tatty baseball cap, the 50-something leads me through a tangled trail of rare orchids, ancient Inca stones and newly-recognised cedar trees, while excitedly regaling me with sightings of "small cats" caught on his camera traps.

He's currently extending the guest house at his Milpuj property, where he lives with his mother, a few kilometers from Kuelap.

Like everywhere in Amazonas, there's a sense so much is waiting to be discovered.

No cable car is needed to access these areas; enthusiasm, diligence and reverence for nature will no doubt lead to more pots of gold.

SET ADRIFT: Appearing at the arts centre on Friday, April 21

GET ready to boo as the baddies swagger their way into the ring with the return to Haverhill Arts Centre of LDN Wrestling tonight.

Who will emerge victorious as those baleful baddies seek to grind the golden goodies into oblivion? (in a panto-type way). Only the giant foam finger and the audience reaction can decide! There'll also be a special appearance by American wrestling star Jigsaw.

■ There's more Easter Holidays entertainment at the cinema: crooning animals take centre stage today at 10.30am with Sing (U). Dapper Koala Buster Moon presides over a once-grand theatre that has fallen on hard times. He loves his theatre above all and will do anything to preserve it. Facing the crumbling of his life's ambition, he takes one final chance to restore his fading jewel to its former glory by producing the world's greatest singing competition. The contestants are a mouse, a timid elephant, a pig, a gorilla and a punk-rock porcupine. Other cinema is the screening of the period drama Viceroy's House on Tuesday, April 18, and again on April 24. It is set in 1947, the final Viceroy of India, Lord Mountbatten, is tasked with overseeing the transition of British India to independence, but meets with conflict as different sides clash in the face of monumental change. Downstairs in the servants' quarters, Mountbatten's new servant, Jeet, falls for the daughter's assistant, Alia, and all manner of obstacles are put in their way. Starring that quintessential English actor Hugh Bonneville along with the glacial Gillian Anderson, it is directed by Gurinder Chadha who also directed Bend it Like Beckham.

■ Set Adrift are a fingerstyle singer-songwriter duo with two of UK's best percussive fingerstyle guitar-singers and they are at the arts centre on Friday, April 21. What started off as a collaboration idea to write a few songs on a houseboat resulted in a five-day tour on the River Thames and an album's worth of material. The album is a combination of originals and covers drawing in influences from fingerstyle, folk and jazz. They will be joined by Robert Castellani who has been nominated three times for the national 'Guitarist of the Year' award and was also noted in Acoustic Guitar magazine's list of 30 of the world's great guitarists under the age of 30.

■ Unfortunately That Eighties Band date on Saturday, April 22, has been cancelled.

■ Haverhill Silver Band play a concert of Classical Brass on Sunday, April 23, and there's sure to be a rousing chorus or two to shake away the cobwebs and get the week off to an energetic start.

■ On the horizon the arts centre has Haverhill Beer Weekend on Friday, April 28, to Sunday, April 30. Food, music and beer all in one place. Thursday, April 13, 10.30am Sing (U)

New car sales hit all-time high – thanks to car tax!

NEW car sales in the UK hit an all-time high last month – and, according to industry insiders, it's all down to the rise in car tax.

The new car market grew by 8.4 per cent in March, making it the biggest month since records began, some 20 years ago, according to figures published by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders (SMMT).

The record performance came as buyers seized the chance to buy cars before the new vehicle excise duty (VED) rates came into force on April 1. Under the new system all new cars, except those with zero emissions, are subject to an annual flat rate charge.

A total of 562,337 new cars were registered in March, more than double the number in the first two months of the year combined, meaning that no less than 820,016 new cars have been driven off forecourts in the first quarter of 2017 – a 6.2 per cent rise on the same period in 2016 and a new record for the quarter.

Following the recent trend, consumers are increasingly looking to invest in the latest low-emission technology, with March seeing a 31 per cent surge in registrations of alternatively fuelled vehicles. Petrol cars experienced a notable uplift too, growing 13.2 per cent while demand for diesels also increased, in spite of the continued scaremongering over diesel emissions. Nearly a quarter of a million buyers opted for oil-burners – the most ever in a single month.

According to Mike Hawes, SMMT chief executive: "These record figures are undoubtedly boosted by consumers and businesses reacting to new VED changes, pulling forward purchases into March, especially those ultra-low emission vehicles that will no longer benefit from a zero-rate fee. Looking ahead to the rest of the year, we still expect the market to cool only slightly given broader political uncertainties as there are still attractive deals on offer."

Ford dominated the best sellers list with the Fiesta and Focus leading the pack and the latest Kuga taking ninth place.

New van demand dips as LCV market stabilises

SALES of light commercial vehicle (LCV) registrations dipped in March, as the market stabilised following a sustained period of strong growth and record demand, according to figures released by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders (SMMT).

A total of 63,316 light commercial vehicles hit British roads last month, representing a small fall of -0.9 per cent, and the first decline in March for five years.

Pick-ups and heavier vans experienced an increase in demand in March, up 23 per cent and 3.6 per cent, respectively. However, figures for smaller vans painted a different picture, with registrations of vehicles weighing less than two tonnes down by 31.6 per cent and vans between 2.0-2.5 tonnes falling 4.0 per cent.

Mike Hawes, SMMT chief executive, said, "The new van market has experienced strong levels of demand in recent years and this dip in registrations represents a natural rebalancing of the market. Despite the decline, demand remains at an historically high level."

Phoning a friend for repair advice

FOUR in five motorists seek advice before committing to garage repair work, but almost half (47 per cent) limit that advice to friends and family rather than professional guidance, according to new research by motoreasy, the automotive start-up aiming to disrupt the service, maintenance and repair industry.

Other popular sources of counsel include personal online research, favoured by a quarter of drivers, while one in seven (14 per cent) turn to forums for information.

However, motoreasy experts warn that the 'knowledge deficit' means owners could still find themselves agreeing to unnecessary work on their cars.

The data showed that men are more likely to trust their own judgement, with 18 per cent believing they have enough of an understanding to trust the repairer's recommendations. For female motorists, that figure drops to 4 per cent.

According to motoreasy's database of 20,000 vehicles, the average car repair bill in the UK is almost £300, but costs can soar to more than £4,000.

Fiat launches used vehicle locator

FIAT Chrysler Automobiles UK is taking the used car market to the next level after launching the group's first Abarth Used Vehicle Locator (UVL).

FCA's high performance arm will be the first brand to roll out the UVL, which launched this week, with the other FCA marques following later this year.

Designed to promote the benefits of FCA's FOUND Approved and Used programme, the new UVL will give customers the complete brand experience with detailed information available and easy to navigate.

Powered by Auto Trader's API technology, and created especially for FCA by experts, the UVL will be distinct and agile, ensuring the ability to evolve with the market. Its fully responsive website is optimised for mobile use and will deliver a complete 'brand' experience to interested users, listing a range of high quality, low mileage used Abarths.

Tristan Downs, remarketing manager, FCA UK, said: "It is imperative to meet consumers on their terms, and we are excited to announce these plans for a completely new used vehicle locator."

Updated Golf GTE drives hybrid value

THE updated Volkswagen Golf GTE is open for order in the UK with a significant price realignment, two trim levels and a raft of new technologies on board.

Driving even greater value for money into a growing area of the UK market, the petrol-electric hybrid Golf GTE offers a compelling mix of engaging GTI-style dynamics, responsible e-Golf-style sustainability and generous GTD-style range.

The updated Golf GTE is now available with a choice of two new trim levels. The entry-level Golf GTE is joined by the new GTE Advance in a range line-up that mirrors that of the award-winning Passat GTE.

The hybrid powered five-door Golf, with a 150 PS 1.4-litre TSI petrol engine and a 102 PS (75Kw) electric motor for a system power output of 204 PS, unites economy and performance in a flexible and appealing package.

The total potential range of the Golf GTE is 514 miles and the GTE's battery gives an all-electric range of 31 miles. This opens up the possibility of driving significant distances cross-country using the TSI petrol engine and then completing the journey into a town or city under zero emission full electric power.

Official performance figures for the 204 PS Golf GTE show it capable of covering the 0-62 mph sprint in 7.6 seconds with a top speed, where legal, of 138 mph. CO2 emissions are 38g/km for the GTE and 40g/km for the GTE Advance, while combined fuel economy is 166 mpg for the GTE and 157 mpg for the GTE Advance.

Sitting alongside the range of the Golf GTE is its ability to offer high performance driving when required. A press of the centre console-mounted GTE button combines spirited acceleration via the instant torque of the electric motor working alongside the broad power of the turbocharged petrol engine.

Both the updated Golf GTE and Golf GTE Advance are equipped with a host of premium features such as full LED front and rear lights with sweeping indicators, Active Info Display, and Volkswagen Car-Net App Connect functionality.

The GTE Advance adds further luxuries such as 18-inch Marseille alloys, the updated Discover Navigation system, a Winter Pack including heated seats, 65 per cent tinted windows, a front centre armrest and exterior e-sound.

The GTE offers four operating modes: 'E-Mode', 'GTE mode', 'Battery Charge' and 'Hybrid. In pure electric mode (activated at the press of a button), the Golf GTE can travel up to 31 miles emissions free. Electric power can also be saved – for example when driving to a zero-emissions zone. In electric mode, the GTE is capable of speeds of up to 81 mph.

The 8.7 kWh lithium-ion battery can be charged in 3.45 hours from a domestic mains outlet, or 2.15 hours from a domestic wallbox. The battery weighs 120 kg, giving a kerbweight of 1,615 kg.

The GTE also has an e-manager which allows the driver to preset vehicle charging, as well as interior cooling or heating. These functions can be operated remotely using the Car-Net app on a smartphone.

A full range of assistance and infotainment systems is also making its way into the Golf GTE. The Volkswagen is available for the first time with Traffic Jam Assist (semi-autonomous driving up to 37 mph), the fully digital Active Info Display and the optional Discover Navigation Pro infotainment system including 9.2-inch display and gesture control.

For details on all the cars in the updated Golf range, together with brochures and pricing and to use Volkswagen's online configurator, visit www.volkswagen.co.uk.

SEAT Ateca gets racy!

SEAT'S Ateca SUV has proved a big hit since its launch and the Spanish car maker is adding a sporty FR version to the line-up later this summer.

It will make its debut at the Barcelona International Motor Show later this month and will join the new Leon and Ibiza and, later this year, the new Arona crossover.

Since its launch last summer SEAT has sold more than 40,000 Atecas worldwide and the model contributed to SEAT achieving an operating profit of 143 million euros in 2016, the highest in the company's history, and finishing the year with its fourth consecutive annual sales increase.

The FR trim level Ateca will come with a range of EU6 petrol and diesel engines, ranging in power from 150bhp to 190bhp, including a new 2.0 TSI 190bhp unit with a range of manual and DSG-auto transmission gearboxes.

Four-wheel-drive will be available on both 2.0 TDI engines and the line up will also feature the new 2.0 TSI model with dynamic chassis control with progressive steering to enhance handling.

Outwardly the Ateca FR has 18-inch alloy wheels combined with

SPORTY: SEAT is adding the sporty Ateca to its line-up body coloured wheel arches and side skirts that include an aluminium moulding running along the lower section of the doors.

The rear window is framed by black spoilers, with the rear spoiler matching the car's bodywork colour. FR logos also appear front and rear while the car has roof rails and window frames in black and the grille in gloss black.

Inside, the FR logo can also be found on the multi-function sports steering wheel and the FR comes with Alcantara seating and aluminium pedals.

UK pricing and specification have still to be announced.

ALEXANDER Sims claimed a creditable fourth place at the BUBBA Burger Sports Car Grand Prix at Long Beach, the third round of the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship.

Sims was making his first appearance at the California street circuit yet managed to have a clean race in the Team RLL BMW M6 GTLM with co-driver Bill Auberlen.

Auberlen took the start for the 100-minute race and was running in second place in the GTLM class when he handed the car over to Sims. A different pit strategy meant Sims lost a few positions, but it was not long before he was back in the top six.

It's 'crazy' but Sims plays it cool on his street bow

A power loss in the team's sister BMW car meant Sims moved up to fifth place with 10 laps left, but chaos on the final lap led to several cars stopping and losing positions.

Sims managed to stay out of trouble and gained another place to finish fourth in class and ninth overall.

"It was a really crazy race with lots of cautions and crashes," said West Wratting driver Sims.

"The key was to just play it cool and stay out of trouble, and that's just what Bill and I did. I'm happy with fourth after such a hectic sprint race. It's our best result of the season so far and it fills me with a lot of confidence heading to Texas for the next IMSA race."

The next round of the championship is the Advance Auto Parts Sportscar Showdown at the Circuit of the Americas in Austin, Texas over the weekend of May 5-7.

However, Sims returns to action next weekend (April 22-23) for the Nurburgring 24 Hours qualifying race.

Barker's push for podium placings

BEN Barker returns to the World Endurance Championship with the Gulf Racing team determined to register at least one appearance on the podium in 2017.

The 25-year-old Hundo driver only just missed out on a top-three finish in the GTE Am class on more than one occasion last year and impressed at the Le Mans 24 Hours in the Porsche 911 RSR.

Now the lead driver in the team following the departure of Adam Carroll, Barker is keen to build on his solid championship debut and enhance his growing reputation.

"I'm mega-happy to be back in the championship, and back with Gulf," said Barker.

"Hopefully we can get some podiums this year. The team have worked really hard to get the car ready and the balance of performance should be in our favour slightly against the (Ferrari) 488s.

"It's important for me to keep the momentum going.

"It's a good opportunity to do well in this series.

"As lead driver I'll have more input and more responsibility with the car set-up. There's going to be a bit more on my shoulders which I'm perfectly fine about."

Barker will again be sharing driving duties with team boss Michael Wainwright, with the pair joined by Australian newcomer Nick Foster.

And the added responsibility that comes with being lead driver will spur on Barker to achieve even better results than last year. And as he and Wainwright gained crucial experience last year, hopes are high for a successful campaign.

"We'll have a lot more confidence going to the tracks and that will hopefully bring improved performance," said Barker.

"There's no reason why we can't be on the podium."

Palmer strikes to end Rovers' winless streak

HAVERHILL Rovers picked up their first win for five weeks when they overcame Kirkley & Pakefield 3-0 at the New Croft on Saturday.

Rovers made a decent start to the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division match, with both Jordan Palmer and Rafal Wozniak going close, the latter having a one-on-one effort saved.

The hosts went a goal up after 21 minutes when Mitchell Burr crossed from the left for Marcus Hunt to loop a header over the wrong-footed Kirkley keeper.

Football

It remained 1-0 at half time but five minutes after the restart the lead was doubled. Wozniak made a good run down the right and played in Ben Bradley, who cut the ball back for Palmer to hit a low shot into the bottom corner.

The third and final goal came in the 53rd minute. Bradley's cross prompted the Kirkley defence to step up but they did so too late, allowing Palmer to beat the offside trap and run through to score his second of the afternoon. Kirkley did not give up and went close to pulling a goal back on the hour, but a goal-line clearance by Sam Holmes ensured Rovers' clean sheet remained intact for the rest of the match.

Haverhill Borough's hopes of reaching the Suffolk Premier Cup final at Portman Road were dashed when they lost 4-1 to Crane Sports in the semi-finals.

Borough made a bright start to the tie, with Ryan Swallow shooting just wide, but Crane took the lead in the 26th minute, and after Rory Bone missed a good chance early in the second half, it was all one-way traffic.

A penalty and two goals in quick succession made it 4-0 before Boro player-manager Martin Westcott, left, scored a late consolation.

Boro's disappointment was made complete in the 90th minute when Jarid Robson received a red card.
